I have been an associate of James Kawa for many years. We previously worked together in the Management Consulting field. When I think of James three things come to mind: integrity, trust, and dedication--very important qualities in real estate! Though we work in different countries, for different organizations in the industry, I can vouch for Mr. Kawa's character without hesitation. Personal qualities like integrity, trust and dedication supersede franchise or company names You'll be in good hands with James and will feel comfortable using him with confidence as a respected, professional Realtor®
